

DAILY STATE OF IRELAND TREATY LIVE TO FIGHT FOR WEEK

Depression Prevails That Ratification is Certain, But That the Majority Will Be Small—Countess Markievicz Gave Vent to Her Bitterness in Opposition to the Treaty by a Puerile Display of Irony Involving the Engagement of Princess Mary—A Dignified Repraisal Was Administered by Michael Collins.

Dublin, Jan. 3.—(By The A. P.)—The Dail Eireann assembled today to take what is hoped will be final action on the Irish treaty. At the close of the session the impression prevailed that ratification was certain, but that the majority would be small.

When the proceedings began the rule book was read and the speaker against the treaty to be heard alternately, and up to the present it has not been found necessary to break this rule, so evenly have the members divided in opinion. The speaker for the treaty was heard in the afternoon, and there is some hope of the debate terminating on Thursday or Friday.

Frequent attempts are being made to limit the speeches either by limiting the length of the speeches or by a house motion, but thus far the leaders have shown no signs of being able to do so. The speaker for the treaty, Michael Collins, in particular, has been very effective in his speech, and has been very effective in his speech, and has been very effective in his speech.

Countess Markievicz, who is a member of the Dail, gave vent to her bitterness in opposition to the treaty by a puerile display of irony involving the engagement of Princess Mary. A dignified repraisal was administered by Michael Collins.

FRANCE ACCEPTS A FORMAL PROPOSAL FOR SUBMERSIBLES

To Prohibit the Use of Submersibles Against Merchant Vessels—French Delegates Reserve Final Approval Pending Discussion of the Precise Language of the Declaration—British Acceptance Has Been Given—Italians and Japanese Have Intimated They Would Interpose No Serious Objection Should the Proposal Receive Full Approval of France.

Washington, Jan. 3 (By The A. P.)—The American proposal to prohibit use of submersibles against merchant vessels, now the predominant issue of the arms negotiations, has been accepted in principle by France. But her delegates have reserved final approval pending a discussion of the precise language of the declaration.

British acceptance previously had been given, and although neither the Italians nor the Japanese had received final instructions, neither Rome nor Tokyo would interpose serious objection if the proposal received France's final approval.

The nature of the French reservation was not revealed, but the impression was gathered in some quarters that it might concern such a definition of the terms as would restrict the use of submersibles to the principal belligerent nations.

Following the example of the Americans, the British group indicated that it will have no objection to the Japanese proposal to clarify further the scope of the new Chinese disarmament agreement. It will not apply to the principal belligerent nations, and in some quarters a definite declaration on the subject, to be approved by the signatory powers, is understood to be in preparation.

Meantime work on two important collateral features of the conference, involving technical details of the naval settlement and revision of the Chinese tariff system, moved forward in simultaneous fashion with a promise of early conclusion.

The naval experts sub-committee, spent all day clearing away the debris of the loose ends of the naval agreement, and the tariff sub-committee is understood at a session late in the day to have reached a virtual decision regarding the revision of the Chinese tariff schedule.

Before the meeting of the tariff body, the chairman, Secretary Underwood, of the American delegation, conferred at length with Albert Sarraut, head of the French group, and they are said to have discussed the particular interest of France in the new Chinese disarmament agreement, including out of conditions along the border of French Indo-China.

The entire subject of the new disarmament agreement, however, is understood to have been reviewed by the two delegations, and the result that the work of the sub-committee was facilitated materially.

Particular interest was aroused by further charges by the unofficial delegation of the Far Eastern republics regarding Japanese claims to the right of declaration making public what it declared was the text of a treaty between the Japanese army and Russian "rebels" in Manchuria.

ORDERED TO VISIT ALL SCATTERED ARMY COMMANDS

Washington, Jan. 3 (By The A. P.)—Secretary Weeks has directed Assistant Secretary Welles and Major General Harbord to visit all scattered army commands in the country for the purpose of establishing a closer relationship between the army and the people.

Secretary Weeks had hoped to make the trip assigned to Mr. Welles and Major General Harbord, but found that impossible at the present time. Mr. Welles, however, will travel as Mr. Weeks' personal representative rather than in his capacity as assistant secretary.

Other army activities to be given attention by the two officers include the schools for officers and men at Camp Raming, Georgia, where infantrymen are instructed in all modern war devices and the Fort Belvoir, Ill., where the General Harbord also will devote himself to a study of the organization work of the cavalry division now being perfected on the Mexican border at Wash.
